HOTEL ISSUED
FOR $5,000 BY
SAILOR'S WIFE

Mrs. Emma F. Camper Alleges She and Husband Were Ejected From Young Dance Floor Because He Wore Uniform of United States Navy

Declaring that she and her husband, the latter wearing the uniform of the United States navy, were ordered from the dance floor on the roof garden of the Alexander Young hotel and prohibited from further dancing, Mrs. Emma F. Camper has filed in circuit court a suit against the Territorial Hotel Co. in which she seeks to recover alleged damages in the sum of $5000.

There were four persons in Mrs. Camper's party on the night of the occurrence on the roof garden. Mrs. Camper, her husband, Otto Fisher and Miss Eva Martin. Fisher is also in the navy and was in uniform that night. According to the law firm of Andrews and Pittman, counsel for Mrs. Camper, three other suits for the recovery of alleged damages are now in preparation.

According to the complaint, the incident occurred on the evening of August 4, this year. Plaintiff says that, while dancing with her husband, who was in uniform, Walter V. Mayo and Harry E. Stinson, the latter being general manager of the hotel, ordered her and her husband "off of said dance floor and prohibited plaintiff and the said Harry L. Camper from continuing dancing, thereby greatly humiliating, mortifying, humbling and disgracing plaintiff." At the time of their alleged ejection, the plaintiff continues, "the plaintiff and said Harry L. Camper, plaintiff's husband, were conducting themselves in a proper, seemly, sedate and decorous manner."

Discrimination by the hotel management against the uniform of the United States navy is alleged in paragraph 6, which asserts that "the only reason given by the said agents of said defendant for ejecting the said plaintiff and said Harry L. Camper, plaintiff's husband, from said dance floor, as aforesaid, was because the said Harry L. Camper, with whom the plaintiff was dancing, was wearing the uniform of the United States navy."

In conclusion, the complaint says: "That by reason of the ejection of plaintiff from the said dance floor of said hotel by defendant's agents, as aforesaid, plaintiff was greatly humiliated, mortified and disgraced to her damage in the sum of $5000."

WOMEN ASSERT
ALARIO TOOK NO
PART IN MURDER

Two women, a sister and a cousin of Isidoro Alario, one of the four Filipinos under sentence of death for the killing of a Japanese named Haya-shihara at Kaneohe, called today at the capitol to see the governor.

They had a new story, which they told through an interpreter. This was that Florencio Bonella, Amador Abeta and Gabriel Verver yesterday confessed to them that Isidoro, their relative, had no part in the crime save to purchase a bottle of soda water at the store. He did not know that there was a robbery in the air, they said.

According to the interpreter that the two women brought this morning telling him they wished to see the governor. They had been yesterday to Oahu prison to see the convicted men, they said, and the three had testified as to Isidoro's innocence.

Isidoro's sister is a woman well along in years, and her drawn and wrinkled face bears the marks of a not too happy life. She said this morning that she had been six years in Hawaii, Isidoro having come here with her. She had no money and no means of support other than her brother, she said. She was barefooted.

Internal Pressure
May Force Berlin
To State War Aims

(A. P. by U. S. Naval Wireless)

Another cloud of internal dissension is evidently developing in Germany, to judge from the following summary by the Associated Press this afternoon:

External pressure having failed thus far to compel Germany to issue a full statement of her war aims, internal pressure now threatens to do so. It is expected that this week the reichstag will hear a full discussion of them. Chancellor Michaelis is finding the way in the thickening gloom of public opinion as difficult as did former Chancellor Bethmann-Hollweg.

AMSTERDAM, Holland, Oct. 8.—Persistent pressure may yet force a statement from Chancellor Michaelis in the reichstag on the aims of Germany in the war, and the feeling is growing that industrial strikes may be expected if the war continues for aims of conquest.

A Berlin newspaper quotes George Goethien, a member of the progressive wing of the reichstag, as saying that "Germany cannot force America to make peace or pay indemnity. The long working hours, coupled with insufficient feeding, is increasing the desire of the working classes for peace."

Prospective Officers Expect to Adopt Two More Children Before End of Camp

SIX year old Juliette Mercier, who lives at 20 Rue Vivier a Herblay, Seine-et-Oise, France, belongs now to the training camp at Schofield Barracks. The men and officers there have adopted her.

Subscriptions taken during the month of September for the fatherless children of France totaled $172 at the camp, and as this is enough to keep two children for two years, a sister or brother to little Juliette is to be named in a few days. With the subscriptions of the coming month it is hoped that two or even three children more may be adopted, and by the end of the training camp season, Thanksgiving time, it is hoped that the Leflehuans will have quite a happy family for which to be thankful.

In a personal letter to Candidate W. J. Hampton, who has charge of collecting the funds for the French children, Mrs. A. G. Hodgins has expressed deep appreciation for the generous gift.

DUTCH LINER IS REFUSED LICENSE

(A. P. by U. S. Naval Wireless)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 8.—The government has refused the request of the Holland-American line for a bunker coal license for the liner Nieuw Amsterdam because the Netherlands government has refused to give assurance that the ship will return to the United States with cargo.

With a full cargo of exports aboard, the Dutch liner Nieuw Amsterdam was refused permission to depart from port yesterday by the board of exports control unless assurance shall first be given by Holland that the great steamer will return to the United States. The Dutch mission, which is now here, immediately made representations to its home government in Amsterdam that the assurance of return should be forthwith given.

The United States desires to have the Nieuw Amsterdam re-bark in the Pacific trade and made this clear to the mission.

GUARD NOT TO BE MOBILIZED
SOON, BELIEF

Army Authorities Have Received No Intimation Call for Service is Impending

Persons closely in touch with guard affairs are of the opinion that the two weeks' intensive training approved by the war department on Saturday does not preclude any general mobilization for the period of the war.

Those who hint at the possibility of such a thing are doing so without any basis for their argument, it is said, and in view of the announced intention of the war department not to put the guard into active service unless emergencies warrant it. So far as army authorities are concerned they have received no message to convince them that the department has changed its mind on the question.

By the national defense act the national guard must have 15 days of field work each year in order to qualify for federal pay. The encampment for this year therefore is not necessarily in any different class than was that of last year, save for the fact that the country is at war and that a number of people want to see the guard mobilized.

One question that is being asked considerably at the present time is what will be done with the draft army which is due to be organized here soon after the drawing has been made.

The possibility is much nearer, it is argued, that the draft army will be put into active service as Hawaii's part in the big war. Whether the draft army is to be called overseas or not is, of course, indefinite. Such action seems not too remote in view of the fact that all other portions of the national army are being welded into shape for that as rapidly as possible and that Hawaii has no other official representatives in the war.

WILSON DEPRECATES EARLY PEACE WITH HUNS
WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 8.—President Wilson, addressing a delegation of organizers of a patriotic educational movement among Americans, told the representatives that Americans who went about discussing an early peace with the Central Powers should not forget that the fulfillment of their ideas would mean the crushing of the democratic ideals for which the United States stands.

HUN RAIDERS HAVE STEAMER AS WELL AS
SCHOONER IS BELIEF

Indications Point to Wide Range of Operations By Pirates of South Seas—Mysterious Wreck Near Fanning Island Is Discovered—Possible Craft Has Voyaged 3000 Miles From Its Base

LONDON, Eng., Oct. 8.—A despatch today from Melbourne reports that the crew of the German raider Sea Adler has been captured in an open whaleboat near the Fiji group. The Germans, the despatch says, have admitted full details of raids in the South Pacific. They had guns and machine guns aboard.

The above despatch undoubtedly supplements the story published Saturday in the Star-Bulletin to the effect that two officers and four sailors of the German raider Sea Adler had been captured in the Fiji group by the British. As far as can be learned, however, the main raiding crew on the Lutetia is still preying on shipping.

FEAR that the German raiders in the South Pacific are operating with a steamer as well as a small schooner is openly voiced by shipping men who have studied closely the reports of the raiders' depredations and estimated the necessary sailing radius between the routes of the ships destroyed.

Proof that the raiders are not confining their operations to the near vicinity of the Society, Fiji and Samoa islands is given in a report of the discovery of a destroyed ship near the Fanning islands, several days ago by a steamer from the supposed base of the raiders. From Tahiti in the Society group to Fanning it is approximately 1250 miles, or a distance equal to that from Honolulu to Fanning.

The report of the discovery of ship wreckage near Fanning is given in a recent issue of the Lumberman, which states:

Mysterious Wreck
"A mysterious wreck, supposed to be that of a Pacific coast lumber vessel, on Jarvis Island, lying south of Fanning Island, in the Polynesian group, is reported. The report states that the wreck of a sailing vessel was observed on the eastern shore of the island. It appears to have been a recent wreck, parts of the vessel's gear being strewn along the beach. No sign of life has been observed. It will probably prove to be a timber vessel."

At the present time grave fears are entertained for the safety of a timber vessel now over 100 days out from Eureka to Sydney. The passage from Eureka to Sydney is generally accomplished in 60 days.

Jarvis Island, the scene of the wreck, is a small coral patch, triangular in shape, one and three-quarters miles east and west and a miles north and south, 10 to 12 feet above the sea, without a tree or shrub, and very dangerous to navigation. The island is situated in latitude 0.22 south, longitude 158.54 west. It has been occupied by the Phoenix Guano Co., who bring men on it for the purpose of working the guano deposits.

"The navy department, Melbourne, has been advised that on July 14 a burnt derelict, a wooden four-masted schooner, timber-laden, was sighted between Norfolk Island and Fiji. On June 19 another derelict, a three-masted schooner, was sighted northeast of Samoa. There was no sign of life or identification marks visible on either vessel."

Norfolk Island is to the southwest of Fanning and not over 700 or 800 miles from Sydney. Its distance from Fanning is farther than from Suva to Honolulu, or more than 2700 miles. The time and difficulty which raiders would have had to destroy these vessels if operating with only a sailing vessel is apparent.

Further proof of the wide sailing radius of German raiders in the Pacific is the fact that the course of the Manila to Honolulu should have been several hundred miles to the west of that taken by the R. C. Slade on the voyage to Sydney.

These calculations are made, too, without consideration of the missing Nichigo Maru from Japan to Honolulu which is nearly 80 days out from Yokohama to Honolulu, and which it is also feared has been captured or destroyed by the raiders. If this is
